

Mitchell T. Rabkin, M.D.
Director
The Washington Advisory Group, an LECG Company

Mitchell T. Rabkin, M.D., advises on systems issues in health care delivery, and strategy, governance, and management of academic medical enterprises.

Dr. Rabkin led Boston's Beth Israel Hospital for three decades. In 1996, Beth Israel and Deaconess Hospitals merged and formed the nucleus of the second major delivery system in the area, CareGroup. Dr. Rabkin became CEO of this parent corporation until 1998 when, through a long-planned succession, he joined the Carl J. Shapiro Institute for Education and Research at Harvard Medical School and Beth Israel Deaconess Medical Center. The Institute addresses teaching and research in the academic medical center, forging innovative responses to the educational challenges arising out of changes in the conduct of both patient care and research, changes resulting from evolving technology, the burgeoning of relevant information in those fields, advances in technology, and evolving economic pressures.

Dr. Rabkin is Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School and has Honorary Doctorate Degrees from Brandeis University, Northeastern University and several other institutions. He is past Chair of the Conference of Boston Teaching Hospitals, and both the Association of American Medical Colleges and its Council of Teaching Hospitals.

A member of the Institute of Medicine, he has been a member of its Advisory Council. He was a member of the Board of Directors of the Duke University Health System and is a Vice Chair of the New York University School of Medicine Foundation Board of Trustees. He is a Fellow of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. In 1999 he was designated a Distinguished Service Member of the Association of American Medical Colleges and also received the Distinguished Service Award of the American Hospital Association.

A graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Medical School, Dr. Rabkin trained in internal medicine at the Massachusetts General Hospital.
